

Soul sister

Have you ever met somebody you have a lot in common with? Some girls call them 'Soul sisters'. I don't think boys really have anything similar to this idea.

The characters in this song meet by chance.

They are only together for a short while but they know they have found a like-minded soul. Unfortunately, they are unable to develop their relationship as they lead completely different lives.

---

*Something's discovered; they don't let it show.
They don't tell the world; neither wants to go.
A touch of the arm, a glance away; something's happened, neither will say.*

*There was something in her eyes, that's still with him today.
Something in her eyes, soul sister from BA.*

*He sees her mouth moving; there must be some sound.
Words appear; his mind is not around.
Something's discovered; they don't let it show,
they don't tell the world; neither wants to go.*

*The hours pass, the street is a scene.
The cars and the noise, the shops in-between.
A touch of the arm, a glance away; something's happened, neither will say.*

*There was something in her eyes, that's still with him today.
Something in her eyes, soul sister from BA.*
